

Double Your Printing, Double Your Fun
WordPerfect Magazine
By Elden Nelson

Your printer may print on only one side of the paper, but most publications have printing on both sides of the page. If you would like to be able to print front-and-back, the included DUPLEX.WPM macro will help.

To use this macro press (Alt-F10), type duplex, press (Enter) and follow the prompts.

First, you will be prompted to insert the paper stack for odd pages. After printing the odd stack, you will be prompted to insert the even stack. (You will need to turn the odd stack over.) Trial and error may be required in positioning the pages correctly. If you have marked any text in your document for a table of contents, list, table of authorities, etc., the macro will ask if the document needs to be generated first. If so, the macro will stop execution to allow generation.
